ALAMO CITY ELVIS[™] PLAYER SET TO SAY “ALOHA” AFTER SECOND-CHANCE DRAWING WIN

(Austin) – Longtime scratch-off player Willie Daniels of San Antonio knows that not every ticket is a winner. But thanks to the Texas Lottery[®] Luck Zone, Daniels now also knows that sometimes you can win even when you don’t scratch off a prize. Daniels won an autographed Houston Texans jersey last year in a second-chance drawing for the Houston Texans game. Monday, Daniels claimed an even bigger prize—a Hawaiian vacation—after entering a non-winning ticket in a second-chance drawing for the $2 Elvis[™] game.

The Hawaii Vacation Trip was the top prize available in the second of five second-chance drawings for Elvis. Daniels is planning to take his wife along with him for their 16th anniversary.

“I’ve been hoping to win some Houston Texans tickets, but I think my wife will be a lot more excited about going to Hawaii,” said Daniels.

They’ll have two Hawaii Vacation Trip prize options to choose from—a seven-day Norwegian Cruise Line cruise for two or a six-night Waikiki vacation for two. Both options include two officially licensed Elvis[®] merchandise prize packs, $1,000 in spending money, round-trip airfare from a Texas international airport to Honolulu, and more.

“Congratulations to Mr. Daniels; it sounds like he and his wife will have an anniversary to remember,” said Texas Lottery Commission Executive Director Gary Grief. “We encourage all of our scratch-off players to visit the Luck Zone on our website to see which games offer second-chance drawings for non-winning tickets.”
